

A Dental Spa

23-03-2009

We brush. We floss. We do all the right dental things. But that doesn't mean we doodle hearts and flowers on the calendar to mark our twice-annual cleaning appointments.

So it was good news to learn that our not-so-warm-and-fuzzy feeling about cleanings may be about to change with the opening of Impressions -- The Dental Hygiene Spa, 1956 Danforth Ave. One of the first independent dental hygiene offices in Toronto, impressions is staffed by dental hygienists (but no dentists) who offer us all of the cleaning services we might expect, plus whitening and cosmetic treatments, too.

The big difference comes with the unexpected stuff: Aromatherapy, massage chairs for all services, optional plush slippers (ours to take home!), parafin hand wax treatments, a cozy lounge area with a fireplace and personal flat panel TVs in every treatment room.

Taking care of our mouth in a relaxing, comfortable setting: What's not to smile about?
